

SPACE STATION—Computer, industrial arts and drafting seniors at Bay Senior High constructed the 30-by-18-foot space station in background, which was on display Thursday through Saturday along with other space-related materials by students from the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Municipal School District and NASA for 'Coast Encounters'. The students designed the space station using computer, industrial arts and drafting under the guidance of Andy Loup, BHS teacher, and plan to donate it to the permanent exhibit at the John C. Stennis Space Center Visitors' Center Museum. Sisters viewing the space displays on Saturday were, from left, Ashlee, Jamie, and Cristin Bradford, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradford of Bay St. Louis holds the hands of mannequin in space suit. Christin is pre-school age and Ashlee and Jamie are students at North Bay Elementary. 'Coast Encounters: A Space Age Adventure in Science Literacy for the Mississippi Gulf Coast' runs through May 6. Telephone group selects Buccaneer for camp-out

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Buccaneer State Park in Waveland is gearing up for more than 500 campers for one weekend in July 1990.

Homer Hall, who will be the International Wagon Master for Telephone Pioneers of America Company Camping Unit in July, reported at a recent chamber meeting an agreement had been made between his organization and Buccaneer State Park.

The annual convention for the Telephone group is held throughout the world—1988's was held at Ottawa, Canada and this year's was in California, Hall said.

"The 500-plus campers at Buccaneer for the July 24, 25 and 26, 1990, will mean a big impact for the area's economy," Hall told chamber members.

Greg Smith, park manager said, "The additional 350 hook-ups now under construction will enable Buccaneer to handle the telephone group."

Buccaneer, with 150 hook-ups, is usually filled most weekends, especially during the summer months.

"Libby (Roland, chamber executive director) and I have been working with Hall for over a year helping with the arrangements," Smith added.

Hall told chamber members he was familiar with area as he had worked in Hancock County on the restoration of the telephone system after its destruction by Hurricane Camille in 1969.

Hall estimated the group will spend some $35,000-$50,000 during their stay in the area.

All types of outings are planned including tours, golf and fishing trips.

Roland said, "I think it is wonderful the organization chose Buccaneer State Park. It is a beautiful park and it has been a strong boost to tourism in Hancock County since its opening."

The number of visitors should be well over 1,000, Hall said, adding "We have our annual camping convention during the summer so children and grandchildren can attend. This is a family-type organization and many grandchildren as well as children attend."

Hall said he has camped in every state of the U.S. except Hawaii and North Dakota, and most of the provinces in Canada.

This will be the first time for the organization to use a state or private park for the camp-out, Hall said.

"We usually meet at some type of fairgrounds, as even the campgrounds are usually too small for the number of campers who attend annually."

Commenting about food, Hall stated, "We have a lot of things happening during our three-day conventions. Most of us do not like to cook, so we will be looking for restaurants."

The organization is looking for a building capable of holding 600 people, a large flatbed trailer for a stage, a large tent, and will be needing the services offered by beauty shops, grocery stores, service stations and even first aid.

Since Buccaneer has been enlarging the number of hook-ups at the Waveland park, Smith said, "We have already been receiving inquiries from large groups about accommodations."

Smith added, "We are looking toward groups with 200 to 300 campers coming as a group, as that would be an ideal size along with our regular campers."

There will be an economic impact in the area when Buccaneer, which now has 150 hook-ups, has the additional 350 in operation, Smith stated.

Directors to be chosen for alternative school

BY DENA BISNETTE

Members and prospective members of the Hancock County Alternative School Association will meet Wednesday to elect a board of directors.

The meeting begins at 10 a.m. in the Bay Senior High boardroom and will include a discussion of a sample constitution and bylaws.

According to Hancock County Attendance Officer Frank McNeil, who has been working closely with Alternative School Chairperson Geraldine Lang, the association hopes to have a program in effect for the 1989-90 school year.

The project started more than a year ago, largely due to concerns regarding students who had dropped out of local schools or who had been expelled for discipline reasons, McNeil said.

"We want to set up something for students who can not be educated in a regular school situation," he explained.

The association now has a non-profit charter and is trying to clear the federal paperwork that will make its programs eligible for grant funds.

In the meantime, McNeil said, donations would be welcome.

"We need to get off the ground by the next school year," he explained.

Anyone who wishes to make a donation may mail it to Hancock County Alternative School Association, Inc., 301 N. Cause Ave., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Right now, the association, which consists of various educators, concerned citizens and public officials, is looking at other alternative schools.

The Hattiesburg Alternative School has provided the association with a sample packet, which will be distributed at Wednesday's meeting.

McNeil said he and some of the other association representatives are planning to visit the Hattiesburg facility soon, and will possibly view others to find the best elements for the school they hope to establish.

All association members and prospective members are asked to attend the meeting, the attendance officer added.

New animal commission plan must wait for Bay election

BY DENA BISNETTE

Until the May 2 Bay St. Louis City Election is over, there will be no change in the government of the only animal shelter in Hancock County.

Dick Fitch, a member of the Waveland Animal Commission, said Wednesday that the Waveland Board of Aldermen chose not to act on a proposal for a temporary tri-entirety animal commission.

The shelter, built more than eight years ago on property owned by the City of Waveland, was originally governed by a tri-entirety commission that included Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County representatives as well as representatives of the Hancock County Humane Society.

The Humane Society representatives were eventually dropped when the size of the commission was reduced from its original 17 members.

Waveland started its own five-member commission and took over shelter operations last year after Mayor John Longo Jr. publicly stated that Waveland was putting the most money into the facility through unseen costs ranging from water to the disposal of the bodies of dead animals.

Currently, the county and Bay St. Louis continue to provide funding, Fitch said, and the shelter takes animals from those areas on a contract basis.

Fitch alleged Wednesday after the aldermen made their decision that "the only complaints are coming from the Humane Society." The society's president, Thyla Rogers, has been asking the county and Bay St. Louis to reach a temporary agreement for a tri-entirety commission or to start a second shelter.

Rogers' complaints have ranged from inadequate space and poor sanitation to unnecessary killing of healthy animals.

Fitch said the complaints are unfounded. "Everything is adequate and there is no rush to change anything," he stated, adding, however, that due to population growth in the county he feels some type of expansion will be needed in about 18 months. "That's why we need a new commission."

Whether that expansion would be in the form of an addition to the existing shelter or a satellite shelter will be up to the new tri-entirety commission expected to be treated after the Bay election.

"Kiln would be ideal" as a location for a satellite shelter, said Fitch, explaining that his opinion is based on the number of animals coming into the shelter from that region of the county.

He said he feels the number of strays brought in from Bay St. Louis and Waveland has become stable.

"There may still be too many untamed and wild animals running around but that's a police department problem. There is no problem caring for the animals that are brought in," he said, specifying that the present commission "is complying with our own rules and with state law."

The proposal for the new tri-entirety commission, which Fitch said would be pointless to establish until after the election because the new Bay administration might not approve it, calls for the appointment of one elected official from each entity.

"We feel a public facility ought to be run by a public body," the commissioner said, pointing out that the funds the new commission will manage are, after all, public funds.

The proposal allows the commission to enter into an agreement with the City of Waveland for the operation of "a safe and clean shelter in accordance with Mississippi State Animal Control and Protection laws."

He said at Wednesday night's board of aldermen meeting that the form of the new commission had been generally agreed upon, but that and other details of the three-page proposal could be changed before all three entities adopt a final agreement.

In other business Wednesday, the aldermen:

—Purchased a new pumper truck for the fire department;

—Appointed Kristi Kidd as the city's South Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo princess for 1989;

—Reaffirmed a city prohibition on gill netting between April 1 and Oct. 1; and —Set an aldermen's workshop for discussion of utility rates for 6 p.m. Tuesday.

The board's next regular meeting is 7:30 p.m. May 2 at Waveland City Hall.

Retired Executives to present workshop

A special workshop entitled 'Managing to Sell' will be presented by the Service Corps of Retired Executives on Tuesday, April 25, from 7 to 9 p.m., at the Hancock Bank in downtown Gulfport. This workshop is co-sponsored by the Hancock Bank.

The object of this effort is to help local business persons sharpen their sales abilities and to increase their profits.

Two distinguished instructors have agreed to conduct this presentation: Professor Emeritus Annabel Hagood, a speech-communication specialist from the University of Alabama, who will talk on the essential elements of successful selling.

Professor Faye W. Gilbert, professor of marketing at the University of Southern Mississippi, will talk on marketing and promotion.

This promises to be an informative and profitable two-hour session. A modest registration fee will be charged. Reservations are suggested by calling Dottie Overal, SBA, at 863-4449.

FBI Unit Chief to address Law Enforcement Breakfast

The 20th Annual Law Enforcement Appreciation Breakfast will be held on Tuesday at 7:30 a.m. at the Royal d'Iberville, Biloxi.

W. Dennis Aiken, unit chief of Public Corruption Unit, a division of the FBI Criminal Investigation Unit in Washington, D.C. will be the national featured speaker at the breakfast.

He was born and raised in Clarksdale and is a 1973 graduate of the University of Mississippi. After graduation, Chief Aiken joined the FBI, and his first assignment was in the 'Watergate Unit' at FBI Headquarters in Washington.

Even though Chief Aiken is widely known for his work with 'Operation Pretense,' which has received considerable attention within Mississippi, he has worked a variety of cases during this service with the FBI.

In 1984, he became supervisory special agent in the Public Corruption Unit at the FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C. where he provided direction to various public corruption cases in the southern and western United States.

It was during this time that Chief Aiken was substantially involved in 'Operation Pretense' in Mississippi, along with numerous similar undercover operations, and he was also involved in conducting inquiries into criminal allegations concerning several high level federal officials.

In 1988, he was designated unit chief of the Public Corruption Unit responsible for FBI investigative public corruption policy formulation and coordination of all public corruption matters.

Once again this year, the national featured speaker will be joined by Mr. George Phillips, U.S. attorney for the Southern Judicial District of Mississippi.

Both speakers will honor area law enforcement personnel and certainly enlighten us on current law enforcement activities.

Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries

Gulfport Attorney Joe Sam Owen and Theresa L. Wilson were named Boss and Legal Secretary of the Year by the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association.

They were honored recently during the chapter's annual Bosses' Appreciation Night held at the Great Southern Club atop the Hancock Bank Building.

Owen received his BA from the University of Mississippi in 1971 and earned his law degree in 1972.

He has served as assistant district attorney and has practiced as a litigation attorney in the Gulfport area for more than 12 years specializing in medical malpractice, personal injury, product liability and bad faith.

Owen is a member of the Mississippi State Bar, the Mississippi Trial Lawyers Association and was recently appointed as special assistant attorney general to District Attorney Joe Meadows. He is active in youth baseball and football leagues and in the St. James Parish Church.

Theresa Wilson is employed as secretary for the Honorable Thomas Berry. She is currently serving as treasurer and newsletter editor on the local level and assistant editor of the Profile for the state association.

Mrs. Wilson has chaired Appreciation Night food committee.

The theme for the annual Bosses' Appreciation Night was 'Lighting Our Way Toward a Brighter Tomorrow.' The Honorable Leonard A. Blackwell II was guest speaker; his topic was professionalism in the legal field. Chairman for the event was Linda Savage.

On May 2, we the voters of Bay St. Louis, vote on the future of our community. Together we can start our future through planning. Planning for long-range city services can be evenly shared across the city. These will include continued improvements in police and fire protection; street, sidewalk and drainage improvements, and improvements to provide utility consumers the best services at the lowest cost possible.

We should seek and bring our community environmentally-safe businesses that can be blended in harmony with the old, so we do not lose our heritage. Plan to improve education for both young and old to surpass future needs and continue to provide care of our senior citizens for they have much knowledge and wisdom we must call on in the future.

I now ask you, as I did in January, to elect me your councilman-at-large.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

There will be a moon rock display on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Hancock Bank's U.S. 90 Branch, Bay St. Louis.

The display is part of 'Coast Encounters', which runs through May 5.

I know there must be some folks around who would like to see what a moon rock looks like and I am curious too.

'Coast Encounters', A Space Age Adventure in Science Literacy, is part of NASA's Community Involvement Program in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties.

The programs are designed for the students in those counties.

The many activities will also include NASA lecturers who are to address students throughout the schools.

It is good to have such programs available for our students.

It was a nice drive down Beach Boulevard on Saturday as the fog was clearing.

One of the things I really noticed was how nice the sand areas were groomed, as they had just recently been sifted.

I realize there are some folks out there who are wondering when we will get the sand replenished in Hancock County.

Our county officials were working with the U.S. Corps of Engineers for several years and it seemed there were always delays in getting this or that report.

Some of the findings by the U.S. Corps of Engineers are going to be used by the local officials and they are now in the process of doing the work themselves. The time span was years from now for sand beach replenishing if the county would have continued with the governmental agency.

We are hoping the sand will be replenished by this time next year.

Illegal highway signs to be removed by state

The Mississippi State Highway Commission has directed all highway personnel responsible for removing illegal encroachments on Mississippi highway right-of-way to beef up their efforts.

Highway Director John R. Tabb said the problem of encroachments has become increasingly unacceptable.

An encroachment, according to Tabb, is anything on state property along the highway that has been placed there without a permit.

Reacting to the commission order, Tabb said the department will begin immediately to review all illegal encroachments. On May 1, the department will officially begin notifying all violators.

Tabb said, state law and federal regulations are plain as to the Highway Commission's responsibility in dealing with illegal encroachments.

Section 65-1-169 of the Mississippi Code plus other sections of the law authorizes and directs the State Highway Commission to remove these encroachments. Also, as a condition to using federal funds, the department must clear highway right-of-way of encroachments.

Tabb said offenders can be assessed to cost incurred by the department in their removal.

The statute authorizes the commission to take legal action if a violation occurs.

Tabb said the commission is putting owners of portable sings on notice that if these signs are left on the right-of-way, the department will impound them.

The commission is making this effort to compliment the Highway Department's Adopt-A-Highway Program and the litter prevention program by working with Keep Mississippi Beautiful. These campaigns have been very successful by involving citizens in litter control on the Highway System.

Tabb said it is every Mississippian's responsibility to help keep the highways beautiful and clean.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Minister remembers good deeds of victim

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to write just a few words in memory of a young man who touched many lives and whose passing ought to give us all.

In the last few days there has been the account in the press of the drowning death of Wolfgang Robert Schmidt.

I first met Robert when I was minister of the Bay St. Louis Church of Christ. He attended sporadically, often seeking food and fellowship as much as spiritual guidance. Yet this unusual young man, (dead now at 18) was a Bible student, brilliant in his knowledge of many things and a shrewd judge of human character.

He had been on his own, in a manner of speaking, for some time. It could be said that he was one of the "homeless."

"Friends" helped him, yet none of us, church members included, could provide the help, work and maybe even the love this young man needed.

It is ironic that Robert saved a child from drowning some time ago, only to be drowned himself. I say all this because I want very much that Robert be remembered; remembered as he was, a young man of courage.

He faced life with great interest and resignation, touching our lives in a way that, although we were unable to change his lot, we became aware of him. We could not ignore him. He made you love him and if you knew him, you will not forget him.

If there is meaning and purpose in his death, I pray that a part of it will include our realization that there are other "Roberts" out there.

They need our help; we must not let them "fall through the cracks" of our system and our society. Goodbye, Robert, may you rest in peace.

Diamondhead property owners need explanation

To the Editor:

The very first paragraph of the 'Report of POA President' in the February issue of Diamondhead News, I wish to quote in part:

"I am happy to report that we have accomplished the impossible. You've heard it said many times, 'You cannot make money in the Country Club.' Well in December we did just that..."

The "impossible" he mentioned was accomplished in great part by the club's manager and his staff. Next, we hear of the firing or "asked to retire," by not even a majority of the board members of this hard-working manager.

The Property Owners Association of Diamondhead needs an explanation of the president's actions regarding the club's manager and some members of his staff as to why they chose to leave.

Yours truly,
Doris G. Warren

Hearings set April 24 at Delta State

The Senate Agriculture Committee will hold field hearings Monday, April 24, at Delta State University, U.S. Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) said.

Cochran, a senior member of the agriculture panel, said, "I am very pleased that Chairman Patrick Leahy has agreed for the committee to come to Mississippi and hold these important hearings."

"They will give the committee members an opportunity to hear directly from farmers and others who may have suggestions to make about federal farm programs."

The April 24 hearings at Cleveland will begin about 2:50 p.m. on the university campus, Chairman Leahy (D-Vt.) announced. In addition to the chairman and Cochran, Sen. Howell Heflin (D-Ala.) is expected to attend. Earlier that day, the committee will hold similar hearings near Montgomery, Ala., and the following day, April 25, will conduct hearings in West Memphis, Ark., and Platte City, Mo.

At Delta State, the committee will hear from farmers and farm organization spokesmen in commodities such as cotton, rice and soybeans. Also, the panel will hear from experts in agriculture research, forestry, and catfish production.

"It is important that our committee get grassroots input from those involved in agriculture so we will be able to understand better the problems they face," Cochran commented.

"I believe our hearings in Mississippi will give us a much needed perspective for writing the new farm bill," he concluded.

The 1985 farm bill expires next year, and Congress is beginning work this session on the 1990 legislation that will govern federal farm programs.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

By Senator
Gene Taylor

A series of short reports on Senate

Now that the regular and special sessions of the Legislature are over, I would like to give you a series of short reports on some of the accomplishments enacted this year.

I am particularly proud of the tough stance we took on drug dealers. I think that the law which we passed and which I expect the governor to sign into law is probably the strictest in the nation regarding punishment of illegal drug dealers.

House Bill 631, which was introduced by the Speaker of the House and co-authored by 32 other House members, originally dealt with strengthening the penalties for persons caught selling drugs on or near school property.

When this bill came to the Senate, almost half of our membership, including myself, sponsored an amendment to mandate a lifetime prison sentence for anyone caught selling a certain amount of drugs within a one-year period regardless of where the drug sale or sales are made.

This life sentence shall not be reduced or suspended, nor shall the person be eligible for parole or probation. The amounts of drugs which will bring about this penalty include 10 pounds of marijuana, two ounces of cocaine or mixture containing cocaine, two ounces of heroin, and 100 dosage units of morphine, Demerol or Dilaudid.

The only way for a convicted drug dealer to avoid a life sentence without parole is for the drug dealer to provide information that the sentencing judge considers useful in the prosecution of another drug dealer.

The first war on drugs was started by President Nixon in 1972. Since then, billions of taxpayer dollars have been spent in an effort to halt the flow on drugs. Today, our coastal sheriffs and chiefs of police will tell you that 800 percent of all crime is drug-related.

We are losing the war on drugs. For two decades Washington has told us that they can solve the problem by spending more money. I disagree. I think that it is time that we turned our efforts toward eliminating the villains rather than asking the victims for more tax money.

The law passed by the Mississippi Legislature does just that. Mississippi is taking the lead by passing one of the toughest laws in our nation, a law to put drug dealers in prison for the rest of their lives.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator
Thad Cochran

Cochran holding major education hearings in state

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) announced the Senate Education panel will hold two major field hearings in Mississippi on Apr. 27 and 28.

The Senate subcommittee hearings in Jackson and Biloxi will focus on Star Schools, Chapter I programs, and the proposed new Tech-Prep Education Act (S. 439) that Senator Cochran is co-sponsoring with Education Chairman Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.).

"I am pleased that Chairman Pell has agreed for our subcommittee to hold these hearings to obtain the views of Mississippians, including our teachers and administrators on education issues," Cochran said.

On Thursday, Apr. 27 at 10 a.m., the panel will conduct hearings in the old Supreme Court Chamber at the State Capitol. The morning session will focus on television and

The message that this legislation sends to the drug dealers is perfectly clear: we will not tolerate the sale of illegal drugs in Mississippi.

If you are caught and convicted of selling any amount of illegal drugs within 1,500 feet of a school, your prison sentence will be doubled.

Additionally, if you are caught and convicted of selling large amounts of drugs anywhere, you will spend the rest of your life in prison.

In addition to the bill that mandates tough sentences, legislation was passed to help our State Narcotics Bureau Officers in the war on drugs. The Legislature enacted two bills to give them more tools to catch illegal drug dealers.

One would allow the state courts to authorize wiretapping when there is probable cause to believe that it will provide evidence of the commission of a felony under the drug laws. Only the Bureau of Narcotics is authorized to use the wiretap.

A second bill allows the Bureau to use pen registers which are devices that attach to a telephone line to record outgoing numbers dialed and information regarding incoming calls.

We hope that these new laws will send a strong message to illegal drug dealers that we don't want them in Mississippi and we will not tolerate their activities. However, we realize that cutting down on the supply of drugs is not enough—we must reduce the demand for drugs.

In an effort to find means to deal with both the supply and demand, a joint legislative committee will study the entire drug problem this summer and fall and make recommendations to the Legislature in 1990.

This committee is charged with looking at drug law enforcement, drug testing programs in the schools and workplace, criminal penalties for sale and possession of controlled substances, the adequacy of drug abuse education programs, and the availability of drug rehabilitation programs.

I think that all the members of the Legislature are deeply concerned about he ever-growing drug problem, and I hope that next year we will continue to enact meaningful legislation to combat the problem.

One day this week, I actually saw a driver in front of me use a turn signal.

That ought to be today's top front-page headline. Part of the qualifying criteria for news is an element of uniqueness, and believe me, that driver was unique.

Just driving on the Gulf Coast is unique.

When I moved here several years ago, I had had a job where I travelled a lot. And I do mean a lot—I knew where every public restroom in seven counties was and how late gas stations closed in even the smallest towns.

I thought I had seen every conceivable style of driving from the hot-rod teenager with his glossy sports car to the little old man in the 1943 pick-up who used baling wire to keep the back bumper from falling off.

I wasn't quite ready for the Gulf Coast's road show with its optional side trip to Highway 603.

Now, I will be first to say I shouldn't criticize the way people drive. I am merely making some observations and letting you make your own judgments. I know I shouldn't point fingers at other drivers because I say I have a license and a car; I never say I know how to drive.

I don't even like to drive. That's probably because I consider it work.

I've been told it wouldn't be work if I'd get a nice car and stop driving old, small domestic models with good mileage. The one I have now has a good, efficient little engine, but maybe some of the stuff surrounding the engine is not so great. You have to tug on the steering wheel, stomp the brake and give up on ever getting the air conditioner to start. On top of that, the whole thing vibrates so much I keep expecting door handles to fall off.

I have seen cars better and worse than mine here, but the driving style is about the same no matter what the vehicle is like. I once saw a man in a brand-new Caddy, still sporting a dealer's sticker, execute an old-fashioned turn signal—the kind where you stick your arm out the window.

Why are turn signals immediately rendered non-functional after a vehicle gets south of Interstate 10?

The only time they work is when there are six cars ahead of a stopped vehicle, usually on 603; the first car is turning but no one else is. The only one without a turn signal is the only one turning.

Another fashionable item, particularly on 603, is the one-eyed car. It looks like a motorcycle approaching you because the working light is usually on the outside of the road. I see so many I think I should knock one of my headlights out, so I'll fit in better.

Oddly enough, missing tail lights just haven't caught on as an automotive fashion trend.

Another fun thing here is rust. It doesn't affect driving until it attacks the muffler, then you get an interesting little fireworks show at night as the car in front of you drags its muffler under it.

I know I can't drive like that anywhere except the Coast, because I'd be ticketed elsewhere. While I agree that law enforcement officers should ticket some violations of these types, I sincerely hope the main reason they are not is that they are handling more dangerous matters, such as drunken drivers.

One thing, too, I will not find anywhere else in Mississippi is a shoreline to drive along. If you haven't got bikinis and tanned bodies to distract you, there are always sand flurries, fishermen on the bridge and least terns. Don't forget, too, that in parts of Hancock County you can get a free saltwater car wash if the weather is bad enough.

One other little item seems especially prevalent in Hancock County—the way people deal with signs. People run stop signs everywhere, but we have a unique dilemma here. What can you do about somebody who runs an empty pole? How about a corner where a stop sign was? You can't exactly ask somebody to stop when your sign has been stolen, can you?

Borrowing a slogan I used to see on an old service station when I was little, I'll wish you "Happy Motoring." Drive around a while and you'll catch on to our Gulf Coast fads, and even if you don't, it's still going to be one interesting road trip.

Rocket plant contract to provide Stennis jobs

The Lockheed-Aerofjet team has been awarded a potential $1.2 billion contract for construction of a new space shuttle solid rocket booster that will provide about 200 permanent jobs and about 100 construction jobs at John C. Stennis Space Center.

Most of the project, expected to get underway next year, will be at the Yellow Creek site in North Mississippi, but NASA spokesman Mack Herring said the testing of the new motors will be conducted at Stennis.

The program is expected to last about seven years and produce a second generation rocket motor expected to be safer and capable of lifting heavier payloads than the present motor, which was redesigned after the Challenger explosion of 1986, officials of Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The Michoud Assembly Facility near New Orleans will also be involved in the project.

The present schedule calls for delivery of the first motors in 1994.

IN BRIEF

CANCER SURVIVORS' DAY

Mississippi residents will join thousands of cancer survivors, friends and families across the U.S. on Sunday, April 30, in celebration of National Cancer Survivors' Day to commemorate personal victories over cancer, as well as positive advancements in cancer research.

Sponsored by the American Cancer Society and Coping, the national magazine for people and families living with cancer, National Cancer Survivors' Day is the second annual celebration of cancer survival on a grand national scale.

The American Cancer Society is a national non-profit organization dedicated to the control and eradication of cancer. The American Cancer Society celebrated its 75th anniversary last year and is the world's largest volunteer health organization.

For more information about National Cancer Survivors' Day activities in your area, contact the American Cancer Society.

Grammy Award-winning vocalist Bobby McFerrin and innovative dancer-choreographer Tandy Beal combine their talents for "Voice/Dance," a half-hour special airing at 10:30 p.m. Monday, April 24, on Mississippi ETV, in which McFerrin provides music for a dance performance extravaganza.

With a voice that can mimic any sound from the lyrical strings of a chamber orchestra to the cacophony of a tropical rain forest, McFerrin provides the only musical accompaniment for Beal and her dance company in this special encore presentation.

Salute to Business and Industry set April 28

The third annual Hancock County Salute to Business and Industry will be April 28 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The program is sponsored by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission in cooperation with the Board of Supervisors and the Chamber.

The local program is held in conjunction with the statewide Salute to Business and Industry Month activities to recognize the contributions of existing business and industry to the economy.

This year the program will honor the John C. Stennis Space Center and the various companies which provide a broad array of vital services to the center's resident agencies.

These companies employ approximately 3,500 of the total 5,400 personnel at the government installation.

In addition a special business will also be honored by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Port and Harbor Commission.

A buffet breakfast will be served at 7 a.m. with the program beginning promptly at 7:30 a.m. If you and representatives of your business are interested in attending this event, contact the chamber or Port and Harbor office.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

We're seldom satisfied

One of our human quirks is that we tend to find fault with almost everything, even God. It would almost seem to be essential to our everyday entertainment that we go over things and people with a fine-tooth comb and discover each errant bump.

The Christopher Book, Three Minutes a Day (vol. 22, 1983), gives a typically human sketch of the perfect pastor:

"The perfect pastor preaches exactly 10 minutes. He condemns sin, but never hurts anyone's feelings. He works from 8 a.m. until midnight, and is also the church janitor.

"The perfect pastor makes $40 a week, wears good clothes, drives a good car, and donates $30 a week to his parish. He is 29 years old and has 40 years' experience.

The perfect pastor makes 15 house calls a day and is always in his office.

"If your pastor does not measure up, send this to six other parishes that are also dissatisfied with their pastor, then bundle up your pastor and send him to the church at the top of the list. In one week you will receive 1,643 pastors—and one of them should be perfect.

"Have faith in this letter. One parish broke the chain and got its old pastor back in three months."

Of course, we have no illusions about the staggering variety, depth and extent of our human defects, foibles, ignorances, personality peculiarities and eccentricities. When it comes to picking people apart, there are faults aplenty, mistakes aplenty, and enough strangeness in all of us to go around many times over.

Pastors are certainly one of the favorite targets of people as a whole, but they are neither more nor less defective than the rest of humankind. If anything, they are victims of one of the closest and most intense of all human relations. And, of course, the closer we are in our relations, the pickier we tend to get.

Just ask any married couple. Closer than this we don't get. And, usually, more critical than this we don't get either. If you are ever looking for a wart-and-all analysis of an individual, ask the person's spouse. Unfortunately, the appraisal will likely be a tad more negative than positive.

It is not incidental that nearly the same high pitch of criticism trickles down from spouses to the children in the family. The warts-and-all complex is usually alive and well between parents and children as well as between siblings.

We're seldom satisfied with anything. To hear us tell it, there is scarcely a woman or man on earth capable of being the wife or husband one should be. From the body itself, to the manner of dressing, to habits of speech, to use of intelligence, to display of emotions, to work habits, to strange mannerisms waking or sleeping, the magnifying glass is always there to criticize.

One of the most unnerving of all experiences is to listen to people take their friends apart systematically. It makes you wonder why it is that those people want to retain friends, and yet show so little appreciation of them. Indeed, with friends like them, who needs any enemies at all?

It may be difficult to estimate what percentage of people are given to criticism about friends, but it has to be prohibitive and thoroughly frightening. No doubt, insecurity is the culprit.

We had best decide to accept each other, even if we seem too colorful, too colorless, too quiet, too polemic, too defective.

Hancock Medical Center

Headaches vary in intensity, cause

A headache is nothing more than one of life's inconveniences to most people. Aspirin or acetaminophen are the most common forms of treatment.

Yet, some suffer such relentless pain that it requires medical attention. Although medical science offers very effective treatment for acute pain, it's important that we know the types and causes of headaches.

Tension: A dull pain at the base of the skull often triggered by emotional distress or fatigue. This is the most common form of headache.

Cluster: This headache most often occurs at night. The pain is very severe and localized behind one eye.

These attacks occur one right after another, thus the "cluster." Excessive smoking or alcohol consumption has been linked to these types of headaches.

Sinus: This is characterized by pain behind the nose, most often caused by inflamed or infected sinus cavities. Antibiotics and decongestants are the most effective forms of treatment.

Temporal Arteritis: Inflammation of the temporal artery usually affects older adults. Symptoms may include low fever, pain on one side of the jaw while chewing, weight loss and trouble with eyesight.

Consult a physician if you suffer from these symptoms. Severe complications may result due to Temporal Arteritis.

Vascular: Expanding and contracting blood vessels produce a chronic, throbbing pain much like that of a pulse beat. Migraines fall under this category.

Severe pain, nausea, vomiting, cold hands, tremor, dizziness, and sensitivity to light and sound characterize migraine headaches.

There are two types of migraines: classic and common. The difference is that classical migraines warn the victim of a coming attack. These symptoms include speech impairment, confusion, restlessness and visual disturbances (or auras).

Migraine headaches usually run in the family. But some believe the cause is due to personality—always striving to succeed. However, most experts agree that how you cope with stress is directly related to alleviating or preventing an attack.

Medicines used to treat migraines are either counteractive or preventative in nature. Counteractive medicines would include aspirin, acetaminophen and ibuprofen, and are used to relieve pain and symptoms once an attack has begun.

Preventative medicines, such as the beta-blocker propranolol, are reserved for the chronic sufferer of migraines.

There are many types of headaches and most can be taken care of at home. Yet, if the headaches are persistent or severe, you should consult your family doctor.

Health care talk show produced on Gulf Coast

Watching television continues to be a healthy habit—at least for those South Mississippians tuning into 'HealthLine.'

HealthLine, the locally produced health care talk show sponsored by Ocean Springs Hospital and Singing River Hospital, airs each Sunday at 12:30 p.m. on WLOX TV 13. Each episode is also rebroadcast Mondays at 7 p.m. on Gulf Coast Cablevision Channel 13.

Upcoming topics to be addressed by the program include 'Running and Walking for Health' with Dr. Jim Hudson, orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Cynthia Owens, internal medicine specialist (Sunday, April 30/Monday, May 1).

'General Family Medicine' with Dr. John McAllgood, family medicine specialist (Sunday, May 7/Monday, May 8).

'Care: Eye Care Basics' with Dr. E. Franklin Rawlings, ophthalmologist, and Dr. J. Kinabrew Williams, ophthalmologist (Sunday, May 14/Monday, May 15).

'Baby's First Year' with Dr. Carolyn Buttross, pediatrician (Sunday, May 21/Monday, May 22).

Each week, HealthLine incorporates interviews with health care professionals with special segments highlighting healthy tips and human interest stories relating to the topic of discussion.

ON ETV

AIDS QUARTERLY

The second installment of 'The AIDS Quarterly' will air on Mississippi ETV at 9 p.m., Tuesday, April 25.

Hosted by Journalist Peter Jennings, this program focuses on the epidemic's effects on the health care industry, with segments about bed shortages in municipal hospitals, Persons With AIDS who 'fall through the cracks' of the health care system, doctors on the frontlines of the AIDS battle and legal questions over whether patients have the right to know if doctors are HIV-infected and vice versa.

Among the individual segments scheduled on this episode of 'The AIDS Quarterly' is a look at AIDS research and its implications on the science of psychoimmunology (PNI).

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Although many vegetables were known to the ancient Greeks and Romans, for a long time down throughout history it was considered a sign of poverty to eat vegetables—but finally, the gourmets and aristocrats of the times began to take an interest in 'plant life' and to devise ways of using the hitherto despised vegetables.

As travel to the New World began in later years, new and strange foods were brought back to the countries of the Old World by the early explorers, especially the French explorers, who were said to be specially adventurous in trying out these new foods.

And, of course, here in our country, the colonists learned to make use, with tasty results of the new and strange foods and seasonings, strange to them, but not to the native Indians, who taught the colonists how to use and enjoy these foods.

An especially delicious fresh vegetable combination, quite good and quite versatile, is the ratatouille (ra-ta-too-ee), a dish dear to the hearts—and palates—of cooks in the French countryside. There are many variations, as this particular dish evolved, I am sure, as a cook's way of utilizing whatever vegetables were on hand at the moment.

And, long before I had ever heard of ratatouille, I was savoring it at the family dinner table as just another mixture of fresh vegetables.

A quite delicious mixture, though. This is a melange of eggplant, onions, tomatoes, zucchini, bell (green) peppers, celery, garlic and seasonings—at least, my version is. Here's:

RATATOUILLE

1 smallish to medium eggplant
5 or 6 ripe tomatoes
1/2 lb. zucchini or other squash
2 medium onions

1 clove garlic, peeled and chopped
2 ribs celery
1 bell (green) pepper

Black pepper, salt to taste
Olive oil as needed (or salad oil)

Chop coarsely or dice, as you prefer, the tomatoes, celery and bell pepper, seeding the green pepper. Peel and cube the eggplant and zucchini. Peel and chop the garlic clove.

First, heat the oil (four or so tablespoons or as needed) in a heavy skillet, and saute the onions and garlic until the onions are transparent, then add the eggplant and zucchini and peppers, and saute, stirring together and adding pepper and salt to your taste.

Add the tomatoes, cover the skillet, and let the whole mixture simmer for 45 minutes or so, or until the vegetables are tender. Uncover and simmer until the mixture is thick. Sometimes I add mushrooms to this, and at times I add chopped ham or shrimp or both, along with a little tomato juice or water to make it more liquid, and serve over rice as a sort of vegetable stew.

Ratatouille is also delicious served cold, whether as a salad or as an appetizer with crackers or melba toast. And it's quite good for stuffing hard-boiled eggs, as well.

I made up a large batch a few days ago, added some ripe olives and capers to one portion, and enjoyed it over steaming spaghetti, the whole business liberally dusted with grated Romano cheese. Try it!

Our Big Solution To Blocked Arteries Is Smaller Than You Think.

It's as small as a tiny beam of light. Yet its results are as big as life. It's the powerful laser used to perform angioplasty at the NorthShore Vascular Laser Center.

For patients with blocked leg arteries, laser angioplasty is an alternative to surgery. It's high technology that's as simple as inserting the tiny laser probe into the blocked vessel. Advancing it to the blockage. And expanding it. With the blockage cleared, a balloon can be inserted and inflated, and normal blood circulation is restored.

What are the benefits for patients? A shorter hospital stay, reduced risk, speedier recovery and less expense. The procedure is quick. Precise. And on the north shore, it's available at NorthShore Regional Medical Center.

For more information or a second opinion about this revolutionary procedure, see your physician or give us call at 641-6363. And ask us about laser angioplasty. It's just one of our big solutions to your healthcare needs.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Strong-McQueen

First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis was the setting for the March 18, 1989 marriage of Terry Lynn Strong of Bay St. Louis and Charles Wayne McQueen, also of Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Nathan Barber officiated at the 6 p.m. double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Barbara T. Redding and Raymond "Stacky" Strong, both of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Jackie Strahan and the late Grady McQueen of Picayune.

The church was adorned with greenery and candles, accented with iridescent ribbon, lace and flowers.

Musical selections were presented by the St. Rose Gospel Choir.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length ivory taffeta dress with an overlay of lace on the bodice, sleeves and U-back. Her veil was a round wreath with pearls and flowers, and satin ribbon trimming the three-tiered tulle net veil.

She carried a cascade of orchids, roses and baby's breath with iridescent ribbon, teal ribbon and peach ribbon and netting accenting the bouquet.

Kim Strong of Bay St. Louis, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Janine Edwards of Bay St. Louis and Hollie McQueen of Picayune, daughter of the groom, were bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids wore teal-length dresses of light taffeta, with two in teal and two in peach. The dresses featured a large round collar with lace overlay and a U-back with a bow in the back of the dropped waist.

They carried cascades of three orchids each with teal and peach netting and ribbon as well as iridescent baby's breath.

The mother of the bride wore a peach-colored taffeta tea-length dress with long sleeves and a high neckline while the groom's mother wore chiffon in dark blue with white trim.

Flower girl was Chari Strong of Bay St. Louis, daughter of the bride.

Austin Redding, stepfather of the bride, served as best man. Groomsmen were David

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES WAYNE MCQUEEN

Strong and Monty Strong, both of Bay St. Louis, brothers of the bride.

Serving as ring bearers was Brandon Strong of Bay St. Louis, nephew of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Veteran of Foreign Wars Hall on Third Street, Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Jeanne Garcia and her daughter Charlene, both of Waveland, assisted, along with Mrs. Arleen Johnston of Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Betty Nacaise served the wedding cake.

The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Hancock County Historical Society

The Hancock County Historical Society will meet Saturday, Apr. 29 at 10 a.m. in front of Ruth's Bakery for a caravan trip to Stennis International Airport.

There the members will be given a tour by Phillips Aviation Inc. for the private and commercial planes, sales, storage, fuel and maintenance facilities: 8,500 feet of runway and a walk-through of a Martin 404 plane.

From there the membership will drive to McLeod Park for a dutch treat fish fry provided by Robert's Reef restaurant. All society members and the public are invited to attend this special outing.

Beat the heat the natural way

Just as solar energy can heat your house in the winter, natural cooling methods can help keep your home cool in the summer. Air conditioning is a major expense in summer for many people. For people who don't have air conditioners, knowledge of how to keep their house cool and comfortable in summer is even more important.

A good way to prevent the sunlight from heating the house is to keep it from going through the glass in the windows. Shading screens cut down on the sunlight before it strikes the glass. This shading device works like regular screen, except it is made of tightly woven material.

If you have unshaded east or west windows you will find that the addition of sun screens will cut the heat gain through these windows by about 60 percent, lessen the air conditioning load and make your home more comfortable.

The Hancock County Extension office is conducting a workshop for making these sunscreens. It will be held on Thursday, May 11 at 8:30 a.m. at the Hancock County Fairgrounds Building on Longfellow Road.

If you are interested in making sunscreens or receiving more information, contact Darlene Underwood at 467-5456 at the County Extension Office.

Deadline for registering is April 24.

Appreciation Breakfast set for April 26

The Mississippi Coast Crime Commission announced the seventh annual 'Law Enforcement Appreciation Breakfast,' will be Tuesday, April 25, 7:30 a.m. at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel in Biloxi.

Since 1982, the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission through the 'Law Enforcement Appreciation Breakfast,' has paid tribute to Coastal men and women who bravely work in all areas of law enforcement and public safety.

Last year's LEAB saw the largest gathering ever as Attorney General Mike Moore addressed those present.

Local businesses and professional people are being asked to help the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission underwrite the expenses of the breakfast and to provide tickets at no cost to all area law enforcement and public safety agencies.

Anyone interested in purchasing tickets to attend or sponsoring should call the MCCC office at 864-9885, Gulfport.

Cultivation party gathers Anderson Museum supporters

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The Diamondhead home of Curtis and Sue Stout was the setting for a recent gathering of Diamondhead residents interested in the proposed Walter Anderson Museum of Art.

The 'Cultivation Party' featured a slide presentation depicting the 7000-square foot museum, which is to be constructed in Ocean Springs. Courtney Blossman, president of Friends of Walter Anderson Inc., was narrator.

Approximately 36 persons attended the afternoon event. More than $700,000 has been pledged statewide over a 3-year period toward the estimated $1,050,000 cost of the facility.

Sandra Shellnut of Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. are co-chairmen of the Bay St. Louis-Diamondhead-Pass Christian fundraising efforts.

Eleanor Currie, member of the Board of Trustees of the Friends of Walter Anderson, was party chairman.

In addition to housing the works of renowned artist Anderson, the facility will feature local and regional works and traveling exhibits, as well as a library, reference center and classrooms for workshops and lectures.

Persons seeking additional information on the project may contact the FWA office at 872-3164 or Shellnut at 452-4714.

With the ever-growing emphasis these health-conscious days on "light eating" and cutting calories and fat, many of our Coast cooks will be looking over the selections at National supermarkets "Steak Sale"—light calf with 25 percent less fat and fewer calories than regular beef cuts.

From round and rib, shoulder and cutlet, to top-of-the-line sirloin, T-bone and Porterhouse, steaks are offered at special prices (5 lbs. or more).

Or course, broiled or grilled T-bone sirloin steak and such—quickly pan broiled in a hotter than hot heavy iron skillet—is a special treat, but there are so many other ways, especially to use the less costly cuts. For instance:

PEPPER STEAK

2 lbs. round steak
1/4 tsp. pepper, salt optional
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup salad or cooking oil
1 (1 lb.) can tomatoes
1 1/2 cups water
1 Tbsp. beef stock base or bouillon cube
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 large bell (green) peppers, cut in strips

Cut steak in half-inch strips and lightly salt. Mix the pepper and a half teaspoon salt (if using salt) with the flour. Dredge the meat and brown in hot oil. Set aside any remaining seasoned flour.

Drain the tomatoes, reserving liquid. Add the liquid, beef stock base, onion and garlic to the meat in the skillet, cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add the pepper strips, Worcestershire and simmer five minutes more. Blend in the tomatoes and reserved seasoned flour, and simmer for five minutes more. Delicious with noodles or rice. (From Cotton Country Cookbook).

Or, if you'd rather "ham it up" or "pork it up" at table, just look over the specials on shank ham portions or Boston Butts at Winn Dixie or the whole Boston Butts at Jitney Jungle. Ham is always a standby for the cook, and also delicious.

You may want to bake a ham portion, coating with mixture of brown sugar and mustard, scoring the skin first, and decorating with pineapple slices—quite tasty.

Or you may ask the butcher to cut off a slice, and make that old Southern breakfast treat—but good at just about any time of day:

FRIED HAM WITH RED-EYE GRAVY

Thick ham slice or slices (usually a half pound per person)

Cup or more of water as needed

Cup or more of black coffee as needed

Black pepper, hot pepper sauce to taste

Heat a heavy skillet over medium heat, after rubbing the bottom with a bit of the ham fat, then put the slice or slices in the skillet, turning as they cook so that they won't curl up, and pan fry. Remove from the skillet and keep warm, while you add to those crusty drippings in the pan the cup of water, then the coffee, stirring to loosen the particles clinging to the bottom of the skillet.

Stir and stir some more, until it really sizzles, and a dash of hot pepper sauce if you wish, and sprinkle with pepper. (The secret of good red-eye gravy is to cook the slices over medium heat, so that most of the juices will evaporate, leaving mostly the crusty particles in the pan. If the heat is too low, you'll end up with braised ham).

Then you scrape and stir the "fry," adding the liquid. Rush the ham to the table before it gets hard, as fried ham will. If you find the ham too salty for your taste, soak the slices in hot water or milk for a few minutes. (From Katy's Cookbook, Cooking Up a Storm).

Spring's fresher than fresh greens and vegetables, along with fruits and all sorts, enliven the produce counters at area supermarkets just now. California lettuce, artichokes, cauliflower and broccoli, along with navel oranges, fill the bins at special prices at Delchamps, Winn Dixie, Jitney Jungle and National are also featuring fresh broccoli, along with cauliflower. And the variety of salad greens, along with the iceberg lettuce and fresh young spinach just turn me into a rabbit, and it's salad, salad, salad for me, in all sorts of combinations. And, let's not forget that special treat of Springtime, sweet Vidalia onions. Let's toss up:

SPINACH, ORANGE AND ONION SALAD

Of course, I needn't tell you that the trick to fresh spinach is wash, wash, and drain, drain, drain. Dry the leaves, and heap into your prettiest salad bowl, the quantity depending upon the number of servings you want.

Peel and section those juicy, tasty navel oranges, and munch a few sections as you work, it seems to make the task go faster. Slice up some Vidalia onions, and arrange the orange and onion slices on the spinach (I like to add grapefruit sections, too) and dress with a tart French dressing. I often substitute lemon juice for the vinegar in my oil-and-vinegar dressing when I'm including fruit in a salad. You may prefer to use bottled dressing. Enjoy! (Copyright, 1989, Katharine D. M. says law enforcement officials deserve more help from the public.

Frank Rippo lives in US-90, but his house is in an isolated area surrounded by woods. He has been the victim of at least four burglaries in the past three months.

He said it felt "quite satisfying"

The public help each other their neighbors

tory" when he was able to help the Hancock County Sheriff's Department capture two of the three men he surprised Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff's Investigator Nathan Hoda said the two arrested were Robert E. Parker, 20, and Anthony J. Spano, 19, both of Slidell. A third suspect fled into the woods but Hoda said an arrest is likely.

Parker and Spano are charged with attempted burglary, but Hoda said other charges may be added.

The investigator said Rippo has a lot of aluminum windows and other metal items in his yard.

Bay to if plan

BY D.C. HARVILL

If plans currently under way by a group of businessmen and local artist become reality, Bay St. Louis may soon be embellished by a mural.

The Bay St. Louis Business Association Thursday night heard a proposal from artist John McDonald for a mural to be painted in the city's downtown area.

"We're going to study it further; we don't want to start something we can't finish," said Jim Thompson, president of the association.
